MAYFIELD QUITS TOWN STATUS; NOW IS CITY

The "Town of Mayfield" is no more. It's now the "City of Mayfield," made so by virtue of powers vested in its body of Councilmen, who have just gone on record with a decree that it is now a city. Passing of the old order of things, which began a year ago, when the peaks and canyons of its dirt highway, notorious the State over, were leveled and paved, will soon be brought to a climax by the removal of the sign, "Town Hall," which for years has adorned its municipal building. This will be replaced by another of more dignified proportions bearing the words, "City Hall." All municipal literature, letter heads and envelopes will be marked, "City of Mayfield."

Mayfield has just reason for pride in its "City." During the past year the barren "City Hall" yard, of about an acre in extent, has become one of the beauty spots on the State highway, with its well kept green lawns and vari-colored flowers. Also the days of Mayfield's bumpy roads are gone forever.

REDWOOD CITY GIRL MARRIES

Miss Irene Cronk of this city, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Cronk and the late James Cronk, was united in matrimony with Charles D. Connelly of Burlingame last Monday. Rev. C. H. Stevens of the Congregational church officiated.

The wedding was a double one, the other couple being Robert Venninger and Carmel Ruth, both of Burlingame. Donnelly and Venninger are business associates.

Strayed or stolen from G. Bellati ranch, Saturday, Nov. 11, black and white shepherd dog, yellow spots over eyes. Answers name of "Bud." Kindly return or notify G. Bellati. adv.

The Economy of Quality

Cheap electrical appliances have to be overhauled, repaired, and replaced so often, that you would be far better off to buy good standard appliances in the first place. Our appliances are manufactured by firms of long and good standing in the electrical field and are all fully guaranteed by us.

LADIES MEET AT THE HOME OF MRS. D. W. WILLIAMS

About fifty ladies of the Congregational church met at the home of Mrs. D. W. Williams on Edgewood road last Wednesday, for one of the most delightful parties of the season. After an enjoyable musical program and social afternoon, refreshments were served which were enjoyed by all the ladies.

The object of this meeting was to raise money for the purchase of some silver ware for the kitchen of the new church which will be officially opened next month. The meeting was a financial success as well as a social one, the ladies raising about one hundred dollars so far with a lot of subscriptions still out standing.

WILL CONTRIBUTE TO SUPPORT OF CHILDREN

Judge George H. Buck meted out a very just sentence in the Superior Court Thursday. J. A. Swanson, an employee of the Hetch Hetchy project, west of town was on trial for having run down and killed James Bolt on the Woodside road last month and then having failed to stop and render assistance. Mr. Swanson plead guilty to the charge but claimed that he was blinded by the headlight of another machine and when he struck the unfortunate man thought that he had hit a very rough place in the road.

Judge Buck sentenced Swanson to an indeterminate sentence of from one to five years in San Quintin prison, but gave him the option of remaining out of San Quintin if he would agree to give the widow of his victim half of his salary for a stated period, the time being fixed from one and one half years to five years, depending on circumstances that might arise later. Swanson also was to dspose of his machine and immediately turn over the proceeds of the sale to Mrs. Bolt.

Mr. Swanson agreed to the parole plan suggested by Judge Buck and so will be allowed his freedom. In addition to the above, he cannot operate an atomobile during his probation.

FORMER WOODSIDE GIRL DIES

Miss Francis Myrtle Earley, youngest daughter of Mrs. Annie and the late Peter Earley, passed away at her late home in Palo Alto last Sunday. Miss Earley was born and raised at Woodside, where she resided until five years ago, when she moved to Palo Alto with her mother. She was a young lady of great sweetness of character and was greatly beloved by all who knew her. Besides her mother, she is srvived by the following sisters and brothers, Mrs. T. J. Secker of Redwood City, Mrs. J. H. Loveland, Thomas, Edward and Burnet Earley.

The funeral was held from the Church of St. Thomas Aquinas, Palo Alto, Tuesday morning, where a requiem high mass was celebrated for the repose of her soul. The interment at Holy Cross cemetery, Colma, was private.

SWART AND MACHADO WIN $20,000 LAW CASE

Greta Peterson and Alma Goyette, widow and daughter respectively of the late C. P. Peterson, were awarded damages of $20,000 by a jury in the Superior Court Tuesday from Louis A. Bauer, said to be a San Francisco automobile dealer, following a trial of their suit in which they demanded $50,000 alleging that Bauer was responsible for the injuries from which Peterson died Nov. 28, 1921.

According to the evidence submitted to the jury, Peterson was driving a Ford car on the State highway near Redwood avenue, Main street, and the Woodside road on April 16, 1921, when Bauer, driving a Studebaker car, crashed into the Ford, Peterson being thrown to the pavement and receiving fractured ribs, broken collar bone, and a punctured lung. He never recovered.

Peterson was a poultryman, having a short time before the accident moved to a ranch back of Menlo Park from Petaluma. The defendant was not in court, and although represented by Attorney Albert J. O'Brien of San Francisco, it is rumored that he has disappeared.

The jury was composed of the following: Katherine T. Killilea, Pearl W. Eiftman, Mary H. Elliott, Frank B. Woodhouse, Annie E. Pattison, Mary C. Quinn, Jane Harriman, Clara T. Beard, Wm. H. Knight, Maude M. Bancroft, Mary E. Archer and Lillie Riddell.

The plaintiffs were represented by Attorneys Swart & Machado of this cty.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

The Armistice Day celebration at San Mateo and Pacific City last Saturday was one of the most enjoyable celebrations of the anniversary of the signing of the Armistice yet held in this county. The parade, which started at Second and B. Sts. in San Mateo and marched down to Pacific City via San Mateo Drive, was a line of the most elaborate and beautiful floats ever assembled here.

The County Supervisors acted as judges on this occasion and awarded the five prizes to the San Mateo, Redwood City and Chamber of Commerce, San Bruno, Y. L. I., and William Warren School's entries.

Redwood City and the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce were represented by a float representing the proposed bridge across the bay at Dumbarton, connecting the counties of San Mateo and Alameda. The float was well arranged and much credit is due to the members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Fire department for the work done by them in making the float a success. Another entry from Redwood City was that of Lambert & Walter who headed the line of march in three machines carrying disabled soldiers. The machines were decorated with flags and flowers and formed an important and beautiful section of the parade.

Pacific City was given over, in the afternoon, to the American Legion and their friends. With flags flying and bands playing, the popular pleasure resort was one of the gayest spots on the peninsula. The dance hall was run by the Legion in the evening and with a good crowd and good music, the dancing was enjoyed by all.

LOCAL YOUTH INJURED BY FALL

Carlo Semaria of this city is in the Huling hospital with a fractured skull as a reult of a fall he received last Tuesday on the highway. Semaria was riding with Geo. Kreiss in the latter's truck, along the highway in this city. The truck struck a bump and swerved, throwing the youth to the pavement. Dr. Gregory and Dr. Clattenburg werre called in attendance and found the boy's skull to be fractured. Samaria is still in a dangerous condition but is much improved according to latest reports.

SOMETHING NEW

The circus to be given tonight by the Sequoia Alumni Association promises to be somethng new and different in the way of entertainment. There will be a real "honest to gosh" circus in the main ring with animals 'n' everything. We haven't heard yet just what the acts will be, but that it will be a zippy-gazzy-show is promised by those who have the acts in hand. After the main show, side shows will open with an assortment of odd, interesting entertaining and educational exhibits seldom seen under one roof. Hula dances will entertain those admire the artistic rythm and form; the zoo contains a rare and instructive collection of animals from all parts of the earth and a collection of war trophies may be seen that would surprse General Pershing.

There are rumors of folk dances in costume and clowns. The museum and art gallery have about fifty beautiful exhibits, and the management has procured at untold expense and worry one of the most famous of Arabian fortune tellers. Candy, ice cream and hot dogs will be on sale, and about midnight the greatest event in Redwood City's history will culminate in a pitched battle with confetti for ammunition.

LOCAL NEWS NOTES OF OUR FAIR CITY

The local fire department was called out Sunday afternoon. The call came from the Fly Trap Inn at the Five Points. Before the engine got to the Fly Trap the blaze had been extinguished, so there was no need of the fire fighters.

Hugh Clary came over from Antioch Friday and remained until Sunday as the guest of Noble Cloud.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith, who have been spending the past eight months at their old home in Colorado, have returned to Redwood City, and are now living on Whipple avenue, near El Camino Real.

Mrs. Caroline Heiner is very ill at her home on the corner of Jefferson avenue and the Highway. Because of Mrs. Heiner's age, her family has been alarmed at her condition. It is to be hoped that she will soon be well again as Grandma Heiner takes a great deal of pleasure in passing out sunshine to all with whom she comes in contact.

James Bradshaw went to Los Angeles last Friday night and played a star game with the Olympics in the football game between the San Francisco aggregation and the Multonomah team from Portland, Oregon, at Pasadena. The score was 20 to0 in favor of the Olympics. Mr. Bradshaw returned to Redwood City, Monday morning in time to take care of his classes at Sequoia.

Don't fail to hear the talk on the battle fields around Verdun the honor city of France, Odd Fellows hall, Main street, next Sunday evening, November 19 at 7:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Brand, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Potts and Charlie McCracken left for Sacramento to attend the convention of the Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots.

Don't forget to come to the Sequoia Alumni circus tonight.

On Monday and Tuesday, November 28 and 29, the ladies of the Methodist church will hold a food sale in the store of McCracken and Brown on Broadway and Jefferson streets. At this time home cooking and useful articles will be on sale, and lunches will also be served on both days.

H. C. Finkler, veteran clerk of the State Supreme Court, was in Sacramento this week attending to official business. During Mr. Finkler's absence in the state capital, Mrs. Finkler enjoyed a visit from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Brophy of San Francisco.

J. O. Snyder, general superintendent of the Western Meat Company plant at South San Francisco, was a visitor in Redwood City, Thursday.

Mrs. Fred W. Nobs has come down from Grass Valley to spend some time at the Otis M. Carrington home. Mrs. Carrington is at the Mills Memorial hospital recovering from the appendicitus operation which she underwent last week.

Thomas Magwick, a prominent Daly City real estate man, made a business trip to this city, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Beebe of Lobitos were in Redwood City during the week calling on Mrs. Beebe's sister, Mrs. J. H. Mansfield.

Thomas Pitcher of Tunitas Glen transacted business at the county seat Monday.

Charles Steele, a prominent Pescadero resident, was in town the fore part of the week.

Geo. Tinney, who was injured last week in an auto accident, is recovering rapidly and is expected to be as well as ever shortly.

General Geo. S. Evans Relief Corps No. 36 will have a food sale on Saturday, November 18, at De Luxe dying and cleaning parlors 255 Main street, beginning at 11:30. Window space kindly donated by Mr. Allen.

R. E. Steele, Pigeon Point farmer, was a Redwood City visitor, Monday.

The trustees of Sequoia Union high school will open bids for the proposed new high school building this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the school auditorium. There is to be keen competition for the different units of the structure on the part of the various contractors. It is more than likely that the contract will be awarded early next week. The trustees will take the estimates under consideration for a few days before announcing the lowest bidders.

Mrs. L. D. Rathbone, who with Dr. Rathbone will move to Cloverdale next week, came down from Berkeley with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Christ, Mouday. Mr. and Mrs. Christ will spend a couple of months here visiting the families of their daughter, Mrs. Frank P. Wentworth and their son, George Christ.

The teachers who came to Sequoa Union High School this year entertained the other teachers of the school by giving them a theatre party at the Orpheum last night. The lady and gentlemen pedagoges went up to the city via automobiles and anticipated a very enjoyable evening.

Mrs. James Bell has just returned from Calistoga where she spent the past month and will remain here for a time with her brother, Henry McGarvey.

W. L. Lewis, of the shipping department of the Pratt, Lowe Company, wishes it known that he will contest the divorce proceedings which were recently instituted by his wife. He will enter a general denial to all of the charges which she makes and will enter a counter complaint. Mrs. Lewis is now in Los Angeles while Mr. Lewis will continue to reside here.

FORGET-ME-NOT DAY

Saturday, November 25, besides being the real big day as the football world is concerned, will be one of the real big days in connection with the work that the Disabled Ex-service Men's Welfare Committee is doing in allevating the wants and sufferings of disabled veterans confined in the Palo Alto government hospital and in the State hospital in Agnews.

Following the request of the members of the Disabled Ex-service Men's Welfare committee that they be allowed to conduct a tag day in Palo Alto on the occasion of the "Big Game" Palo Alto authorities readily consented to the plan.

A group of beautiful girls representing most of the cities along the peninsula has volunteered to put over this tag day in connection with the "Big Game" in the stadium. The tags will be on an appropriate design and are intended to add much to the collegiate spirit of rivalry due to the fact that they will be emblematic of both universities meeting on the gridiron.

The Disabled Ex-service Men's Welfare committee has received the endorsement of San Jose's community chest movement in putting on this tag day.

COMMUNITY THANKSGIVING

We are all looking forward to a glad Thanksgiving this year. It occurs on the 30th of this month. Even before the president issues his proclamation, Redwood City is announcing the annual community Thanksgiving service. As usual, it will be held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 29 at 7:45 o'clock. In the rotation of churches, it falls to the Methodist church to be the host this yean. The preacher will be the new rector of the Episcopal church, Rev. Mr. Malony. The whole community is cordially and earnestly invited to be present; to enjoy the good preaching and good singing.

Probably the most interesting thing about a baby is that it doesn't know enough to ask for favors you can't afford to grant.

Nothing is so easy as the other man's job.

ADDITIONAL MENLO ITEMS

The following item about one of the pioneer Menlo residents will be pleasing news to the friends of Professor Anderson. The item is taken from this week's issue of the Stanford illustrated Review.

Melville Best Anderson, professor emeritus of English at Stanford, has received an honorary degree in the doctorate from the University of Padua, bestowed at the celebration of the 700th anniversary of the University. Padua sent a Latin invitation to Stanford last spring to send a representative to the celebration and Dr. Wilbur appointed Professor Anderson, who is now living in Florence, Italy.

Mrs. Lucy H. Otis, widow of the late James Otis and daughter of the late F. W. and Lavina S. Macondray, passed away in San Francisco, Monday, aged 90 years. Mrs. Otis was well known in Menlo Park in the olden days when the Selby, Atherton and Macondray families were the society leaders of this section. Of late years, because of her age, Mrs. Otis has remained in San Francisco and only the older people of this neighborhood will remember her.

WILL ERECT TEN HOUSES

G. T. Hanly, a building contractor, who has just come from the East and has located here, has so much faith in the future of Redwood City that he has purchased a block on Oak avenue and will at once commence the erection of ten cottages which he will offer for sale when they are completed. Mr. Hanly says that he has never been in a community which offers so many advantages to a home seeker and he intends to take advantage of all that nature has so lavishly given to this locality.

LADIES TO HAVE WHIST PARTY

On Saturday evening, November 25, the Redwood City Woman's Club will give a whist party followed by dancing at the club house in the highlands. Beautiful prizes will be given refreshments will be served. The public is cordially invited. Score cards will be fifty cents. Mrs. Laflin, chairman of the evening assures a splendid time to all who attend.

MEETING OF WOMAN'S CLUB IN HONOR OF ARMISTICE

At the regular meetng of the Redwood City Woman's Club last Thursday a program in honor of the signing of the Armistice was enjoyed by all the ladies present. Roy W. Cloud, County Superintendent of Schools, addressed the ladies on the subject of "What does the Armistice Mean to You?" The question of the municipal playground was presented to the members of the club by R. H. K. Smith in an able address in which the needs of the town were clearly pointed out. The Woman's Club passed a unanimous vote of approval on the playground proposition.

Miss Bradley, physical education instructor of the high school, with some of her students gave a physical training drill followed by an Irish folk dance which was very much enjoyed.

After the program Thanksgiving refreshments were served by the hostesses who were the Mesdames W. S. Muessdorffer and Rupert Johnston.

ATHERTON RESIDENT CALLED

Rudolph Klumpp, who for the past four years has been a resident of Atherton and connected with this paper as a solicitor, passed away in a San Francsco hospital last Sunday, following a short illness. Klumpp who is a native of San Francisco and 64 years of age, was permanently crippled at the time of the San Francisco fire. He was buried under the ruins of his house and sustained injuries from which he never recovered.

Recently Klumpp was employed by Willis L. Hall n the compilation of a census report. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Dora Klumpp, and by a widow, Mrs. Dora Klumpp.

The interment was in Mt. Olivet cemetery last Tuesday.

Woodside Chirps

Samuel Pond and family will return to San Francisco on December 1st. They had planned to spend the winter here, but being unable to make a satisfactory lease of their city home, they have decided to go back to town until the spring, but are unwilling to leave before the Thanksgiving holidays.

Lucius Morse, one of our most enthusiastic radio fan has made many improvements in his receiving set and on Friday night he invited a number of his friends to his house to "listen in" by means of the new instrument. Mr. Morse was for many years a telegraph operator and has steadily kept up his interest in and study of electrical apparatus. His present radio equipment is one of the best in the county.

Leslie Burnett has completed the buildings for his squab raising plant and within a few days will install his breeding stock. This adds one more to our "farming industries." Woodside has never been known as a farming community, being, as it is, largely devoted to suburban homes, but we have three commercial poultry plants and an apiary, the honey from which is sought for all over the state. While our prunes make up but a small percentage of what are known as the "Santa Clara Valley" prunes, due to our foothill soil and the lack of irrigation, they carry a higher sugar content than the prunes raised in the valley, just as the Santa Clara Valley prunes are sweeter than those raised with more extensive irrigation in Sutter county and other parts of the Sacramento valley.

The fall rains and the crisp weather have put new life into the bunches of mistletoe hanging from the oak trees along the mountain side. The mistletoe droops and fades under the warmth of the summer sun and a few weeks ago looked as if it might have given up the struggle for existence. But the new leaves are springing so rapidly, that, if this frosty weather continues, we may find it covered with its white berries by Christmas time. Also the toyon or so called Christmas berry is beginning to flash forth in all its crimson splendor and through a glass a big blotch of red can be seen painted against the dark green of the mountain sides.

The boys of Woodside are planning the organization of a Boy Scout patrol. They have been promised the services of a Scout Master and held their first preliminary organization meeting at the house of Raymond von Savoye on Wednesday last.

The hillsides have been re-echoing the sound of blasting during the last few days. Thomas Stewart, Superintendent for the Jackling place, plans to plant a vineyard on the hill slope in front of the Meyerstein house and is preparing the ground with dynamite for the reception of the vines.

The Redwood City Commercial Club will hold a three o'clock dance at the Foresters hall tonight. Three prizes will be awarded during the dance to those who hold the winning tickets given out by the merchants in connection with the monthly bargain days. Music will be supplied by Lamb's five piece orchestra. The proceeds of this dance will be added to the funds raised by the Commercial Club minstrel show last month and will be used toward the erection of an ornamental arch over Broadway at the Highway.

WILLIS POLK MAKES TALK ON MATTER OF COUNTY PLANNING

Chairman of the County Planning Commission Gives Many Pertinent Suggestions on Proper Development of County

At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, last Thursday night, Willis Polk, chairman of the county planning commission, set before the members the needs of the county for a definite plan of action, and gave something of the line of action of the commission. Polk in the course of a very able and interesting speech, gave as an example of a properly planned community, Washington, D. C. which he said was planned two hundred years ago. Paris, France, was also planned, he said, and that planning has resulted in the beautiful appearance of that city at the present times. Polk also urged a larger and broader community spirit looking to the upbuilding of the county as a whole and opposed to the selfish, cut-throat spirit sometimes apparent in neighboring towns.

The Chamber of Commerce accepted the invitation extended by Mr. Polk to join in the county planning movement and appointed R. H. K. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Frank Towne, of the First National Bank, as representatives of the Redwood City body to co-operate with Mr. Polk on the Planning Commission.

ARTIST FROM EUROPE TO GIVE LESSONS IN REDWOOD

Arthur Molina, artist and student under the noted artists of Europe is locating in Redwood City, where he will also give lessons in that art. Mr. Molina is a native of Spain and began his studies of art in that country, later following up his education by studying under the direction of noted artists in France and Italy. During the great war he was in the service of France and tells many interesting accounts of the trenches. He is now living on Chestnut street, where he has some fine specimens of brush work finished and under way.

FRED LIPPMAN OPENS A BRANCH MUSIC STORE

Fred Lippman has opened a branch music store in the Post Office building, opposite the Southern Pacific depot, with a full line of the latest in phonographs, records and sheet music. Secure your phonograph now for Christmas delivery. Convenient terms. See the display and hear your favorite music. Mrs. A. G. Esnpault will have charge. She is also conducting on her own account a woman's exchange, with a complete line of fancy articles. Adv.

MORE LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS BOOST PLAYGROUND PLAN

An indorsement of the plans for the municipal playground was received last week by R. H. K. Smith of the Chamber of Commerce from the American Legion. The Woman's Club also voted unanimously to support the proposed plans at their meeting this week. That the playground plans are meeting with general approval of the public is shown by the number of representative organizations that have so far gone on record as favoring the proposition.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY VISITS MENLO PARK

Edward Clifford, U. S. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, accompanied by Supervising Architect Roberts, inspected the buildings at the base hospital last Tuesday. Mr. Clifford marveled at the beautiful buildings being erected and at that attractive location. He declared the site to be the finest in the country, a place where the inmates might enjoy the sunshine all the year round. He was amazed at the beautiful blooms in the hospital gardens for when he left Washington the chilling blasts of winter had already set in and snow was gently falling. Mr. Clifford will take back with him to the capital pleasant memories of his visit to this locality. He will be an enthusiastic booster for the hospital at the capital. Mr. Clifford, though a comparitively young man, has made an enviable record as assistant secretary of the treasury. He is a keen, close observer, quick to grasp a situation and prompt in giving a decision in matters in which the government is interested. These qualities have made him the master mind in the treasury department. His cleverness is recognized by all the officials at Washington. Before going to the capital nearly two years ago he was a practicing attorney in Chicago. Mr. Clifford stumped the state of Illinois for President Harding, winning much praise for his brilliant addresses. Higher honors awaint him at the capital.

SEQUOIA GIRLS PLAY SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

The Sequoia girl's unlimited basket ball team played the team of the South San Francisco high school at South City last Thursday, the local girls played a good game, but luck was against them, this time, and the score was in the favor of the rival team. The score was 32 to 10 The line up of the Sequoia team was as follows: forwards, Charlott Stevens, Agnes Flynn and Katheryn Badie; centers, Patsie Creighton and Katheryn Britschghi; guards, Aralia Brown, Gladys Cronk and Dorothy Brook.

Next Thursday there will be a game here between the South San Francisco unlimited team and the 125 lb. team and the equal weight teams of the Sequoia. The league games of girl's basketball will start about the first week in December. No schedule has yet been made for the league games, but this will be announced in the Times-Gazette later.

The girls have also taken to playing hockey under the competent direction of Miss Bradley, the physical training instructor.

TRADE AT HOME

Owners of business property are particularly interested in the prosperity of the local dealer, and the man or woman who owns such proptrty and by precept or example encourages the purchase of goods elsewhere, not only deprecates the value of his or her own property, but increases taxes on it by reducing the stock carrying and tax paying power of merchant tenants.

It is a delusion to hold that, directly or indirectly, anything is lost by trading at home. Local dealers are in nearly all cases capable, aggresive men, and they find that the hardest thing they have to contend with is not the prices of their San Francisco competitors, but the prejudices of their neighbors and friends.

THE PAPER AND THE TOWN

The local paper of a town is invariably an index of the business prosperity of that town, and we know of no paper in the state that is not getting out as good a paper as the support received warrants, and in most instances better. The local paper labors in season and out of season for the upbuilding and progress of the city in which it is published. Thousands of inches of space are devoted to the interests of the town and its development, without money and without hope of reward. Such is the province of the local paper. If you want your town to progress, to go forward, support the local paper, subscribe for it, and if you are in business, advertise in it. A city is judged in a great measure by its papers, and the papers are just what the support given them makes them.

SHORTRIDGE ON FOREIGN DEBT

Opposition to any plan for the cancellation of the European indebtedness to the United States was expressed by Senator Samuel M. Shortridge at the National Progress Club luncheon at the Palace Hotel Tuesday.

"We borrowed the money from our people to lend to Europe," said the speaker, "and we must pay it back to them. There is no more reason that these debts should be repudiated than any other obligations."

Senator Sortridge declared that a plan was being worked out where by the European nations could meet the indebtedness through the issuance of bonds at the same rate of interest being paid in this country on the war loan.

The national debt has been reduced one billion dollars since the inauguration of President Harding, said the speaker in tracing the accomplishments of the Republican administration. He added that there had also been a corresponding reduction in interest charges and that taxes had been cut.

He defended the treaty with Colombia, saying that it relieved the United States of the necessity of guaranteeing the independence of Panama.

JOHN D'S SERVICE APPRECIATED

Commenting on the remark of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., that he hopes the Standard Oil Company will be given credit for what it has done for the country before his father dies, the Republican publicity association, thraugh its president, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., says:

"Mr. Rockefeller has evidently been misled by the tirades of cheap politicians and muckrakers. The country is well aware that by organization, large production and economical distribution the Standard Oil Company has given consumers fuel at prices far lower than would otherwise be possible. The company has made large aggregate gains on a small per cent of profit, and most people believe it is entitled to ample rewards for ability, enterprise and effort. But even those who may think the profits have been too large do not fail to appreciate the great work of the Standard Oil Company in setting the pace in production and distribution of petroleum products. Nether does anyone hesitate to give John D. Rockefeller, Sr., credit for the vision and organizating ability which brought his concern to the high state of perfection it has attained. In addition to that, the people of the country recognize the value of the work Mr. Rockefeller has done for the advancement of higher education, the improvement of health and the promotion of other philantropic undertakings in the United States and throughout the world.

"It is worth while to remember however, that few public benefactors are fully appreciated in their own lifetime. In the perspective of time their personalities and achievements are more fully and accurately appraised. It need not be surprising if Mr. Rocnefeller and the business he created are no exception to the rule."

BIRD THANKS VOTERS

WHERE IS THE KICK?

Now that the electors of the state of California have declared that local peace officers must enforce prohibition laws, we hope that bootlegging will be effectively put down in this section. Personally, we don't know where "bootleg" is sold, but we have seen the results of its sale here in Redwood City. We trust that the city police will inform themselves of the places of sale and do their duty.

ADVERTISING

Last Saturday at the Armistice Day celebration at Pacific City, Hon. Samuel M. Shortridge, junior senator from California, made a wonderfully inspiring address to a small audience. The reason why that audience was small was because very few people knew that Senator Shortridge would be there to address them If the meeting had been advertised in all of the county papers it is a safe bet that a big crowd would have been present. You have to tell people now a days.

RED CROSS WEEK

This is Red Cross week all over the United States. No canvas is being made in Redwood City. Should anyone desire to pay his dollar for membership he may leave it at the Tmes-Gazette office and we will personally see that the receipt for said payment is delivered to the payee.

THE GAZETTE

The word "gazette" is from the name of a old Venitian coin worth about one half of our cent. The name is applied to newspapers because it was the sum charged for reading the first written journals that made their appearance about 1550. After a paper was read it was handed back to the owner who charged the next comer a gazette for taking a peep at it.—Exchange.

COMMISSIONER TATE FIGHTS BLUE STEM IN COUNTY

The following rules governing the sale of raspberry plants in San Mateo county for the season 1922-23 have been issued by A. W. Tate, Jr., Horticultural Commissioner for San Mateo county:

No raspberry plants will be admitted into San Mateo County from a district in which the disease known as "Blue Stem" is known to exist, unless accompanied by a certificate, signed by the horticultural commissioner of the county in which they were grown, showing that all infected plants and their offshoots were removed from the fields and burned before digging.

Growers of raspberry plants in San Mateo county will not be permitted to sell or otherwise dispose of same, until they shall have removed and burned all infected plants, with their offshoots, and shall have had their fields inspected by the horticultural commissioner to determine that this regulation has been complied with.

Violators of these regulations will be prosecuted.

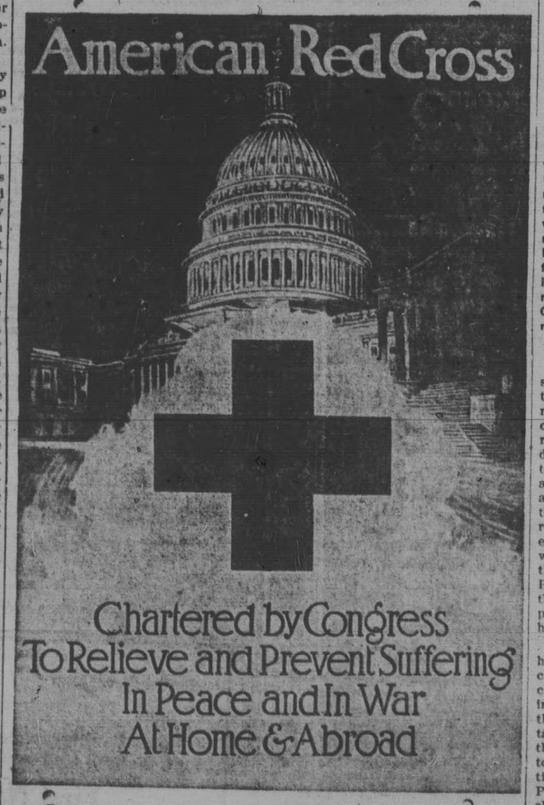
Striking New Red Cross Poster



Riveting the attention of the beholder on the fact that the American Red Cross is chartered by Congress as an official volunteer relief organization the dome of the Capitol at Washington, upon which is superimposed a large Red Cross, is the central figure of a new poster for the Annual Red Cross Roll Call. The poster, which has been pronounced one of the most striking of innumerable representations of the famous dome, is the work of Franklin Booth, a New York artist of wide renown. It will be displayed throughout the country during the Roll Call period, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, when the Red Cross membership for 1923 will be enrolled.

SHIPPERS AGREE UNMERGER WOULD INCREASE FREIGHT RATES IN STATE

Ask To Be Made Party In Fight To Stop Dismemberment

WITH the filing of a formal petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission to be made a party to the unmerger case, California shippers have prepared to take an active part in the fight to continue unified operation of the Southern and Central Pacific system.

The formal petition, signed by Atholl McBean, vice-chairman, and Edwin O. Edgerton, counsel, for the Shippers' Committee Against Dismemberment, asked that the shippers who pay annual freight charges of more than $250,000,000 should be heard in behalf of the public. It declared they are prepared to show "that the ownership of the capital stock of Central Pacific Railway Company by Southern Pacific Company is necessary in the public interest and the operation of the roads as a unit also is in the interest of the public."

Over 500 Protest

More than 500 organizations and thousands of shippers, after looking into the question, not from the point of view of any railroad, but from the standpoint of their own interests and the business interests of the State, have entered the fight to prevent unmerger, the Shippers' Committee has announced.

Charges that the Union Pacific railroad fears to face the Interstate Commerce Commission in opposition to the shippers of California, that its promises to the shippers are shams and that it has sought from the start to muzzle public discussion of the threatened unmerger, are made by E. O. Edgerton, former State Railroad Commissioner, now Director of the Shippers' Committee.

"The unmerger of the Central Pacific-Southern Pacific system is being opposed by the strongest aggregation of shippers ever gotten together in California," says Edgerton. "This Shippers' Committee represents annual payments in freight rates of more than $250,000,000.

"It expects to demonstrate to the Interstate Commerce Commission that it is altogether in the public interest that the Central Pacific-Southern Pacific railroad be continued as one system. The shippers claim that to tear this railroad system apart would result in increase of railroad rates in California amounting to $7,000,000 per year and bad railroad service being substituted for good railroad service.

Rail Experts Agree

"This Shippers' Committee is statewide in character and is advised by practically every able traffic expert in the state. With practical unanimity those railroad experts who have been employed by the great shipping organizations and the public are vigorously against the unmerger. Such experts as Mr. George Bradley of Sacramento, Mr. Seth Mann of San Francisco, F. P. Gregson of Los Angeles, Mr. F. M. Hill of Fresno and Mr. Harvey Sanborn, formerly rate expert of the Railroad Commission of California and, for years employed by shippers to fight for lower rates and good service, are all co-operating with the Shippers' Committee Against Dismemberment.

"The only substantial advocate of this dismemberment is the Union Pacific railroad, which has an enormous selfish interest in obtaining the Central Pacific railroad. Not only would the Union Pacific gain an immediate enormous financial advantage if the Central Pacific were torn away from the Southern Pacific but it would instantly become the dominating railroad of the whole Pacific Coast and would occupy the field with no rival able to give real competition.

U. P. Changes Front

"The Union Pacific representatives sought first to persuade the people that there would be no increase of rates because of two-line hauls being created by an unmerger, with the resulting higher rates, but the evidence will show overwhelmingly that they have now abandoned this position and while admitting that higher rates are possible, or probable, they promise that they will not ask for such higher rates. The sham of this promise is evident because the only railroad which could make such a promise is the Central Pacific and the Union Pacific has not one share of stock in that railroad, so that it is making a promise for a railroad over which it has no control.

"The Union Pacific representatives have sought to prevent a public discussion of this whole question by charging that such a discussion was in contempt of the Supreme Court of the United States, but the Transportation Act of 1920 fully authorizes the Interstate Commerce Commission to permit a continuous unified operation of the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific system, and this is what the shippers are asking to have done.

"Of course it is evident that the Union Pacific wants to shut off all public debate on this question as they have been taught and fear that public discussion brings out in a pointed way the injury that would occur to the citizens of California if this unmerger became effective."

What Some Californians Think of Dismemberment

Well Known Shippers and Rate Experts Tell Why It Would Be Calamity To Whole State

HERE are the opinions of a few well known shippers and rate experts of California in connection with the question of Southern and Central Pacific dismemberment.

Harvey H. Sanborn, Railroad Rate Expert: "I am speaking for the shippers, many of whom I have represented in a great many bitter rate controversies with the Southern Pacific company, and I have not always been in accord with the rate officials of the Southern Pacific company, by any means. But because we may disagree with the Southern Pacific of the propriety of this rate or that rate, furnishes no ground for reprisals and working with the Union Pacific, which, in my opinion, will result in great detriment to the State of California, to the shippers of the state by increasing freight rates.

"It will be admitted by all, of course, that if the Union Pacific gets the Central Pacific, it will be greatly benefited, just as the Southern Pacific will be irreparably injured. But that is not the question. The question is, how is the public going to come out if the Union Pacific gets the Central Pacific.

"Anyone familiar with the first principles of economics knows that one regulated agency can handle a given class of business cheaper than can three or four. You and I know that one telephone company, one gas company, one water company—and the same is true if it is railroad tracks or any of the so-called public services—can be handled by one company cheaper than by two or three—the same amount of business, that is."

State Senator Lyman E. King, of Redlands: "Perhaps I may be absolved from any idea of holding a brief for the Southern Pacific company, in view of my activities with the tax bill of the last session of the legislature. The one thing that the orange growers of the South need in the way of transportation is quick time, promptness in the delivery of their goods. No man can tell me that two agencies can handle a car of oranges or a car of fruit as quickly, or satisfactorily, as one agency can handle it."

C. M. Brown, of Redlands, Grower and Shipper: "I have been shipping freight for almost forty years in California, and the Southern Pacific gives us splendid service as a whole. We don't like many of their political machines and things of that character, but as an actual operating railroad, I find no better anywhere in the world. Anybody that knows anything about it knows that the proposed action means the crippling of service. That is the whole thing in a nut-shell. We know we are not going get any better rates. Service is the only thing we can have and if we cripple the Southern Pacific in California, it is crippling ourselves. So let us all stand together and as shippers, render a service to the railroad that has built up the state."

George W. Sill, Grower and Shipper, Watsonville: "I have done a large volume of business with the Southern Pacific for forty years and it has yet to come to my knowledge that I have in any way whatsoever suffered any loss or been put to any inconvenience on account of the co-operation between these two railway systems. I cannot help but feel that were this dissolution carried into effect it would result in an irreparable injury to the agricultural, manufacturing and shipping interests of this state."

Charles E. Virden, Executive Committee, California Fruit Distributors, Sacramento: "I presume that we handle about five hundred thousand tons of long-haul stuff. It means a good deal of money. We do not believe we are going to obtain any less rates. In fact, we think we will have to pay higher rates, if this unmerger is to prevail. We do not believe we are going to obtain any greater efficiency, we do not believe we will obtain any greater facilities and we rest our belief on these three statements. We also know we cannot operate with officials located two thousand miles away.

E. Y. Foley, Packer and Shipper, of Fresno: "The duplication of necessary equipment in case of dismemberment would mean the expenditure of millions and the shippers would have to pay for this money.

"It would not mean competition. It would not mean better shipping facilities. Some of our Chambers of Commerce have asked the Southern Pacific Company for improvements at certain points. In fairness to its stockholders the Southern Pacific could not make these improvements with its position in regard to the Central Pacific uncertain. Should the dismemberment be carried out these and all other improvements would have to wait for many years while our disorganized transportation system was being remodeled to meet the new conditions."

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stewart wth their little daughter, Marjorie, were visitors in town this week. Both of the Stewarts are well known here, having lived here prior to their moving to their present home in Petaluma.

Duck Hunting Reminiscences

By CLAUDE FOX

The next morning was one of those glorious days that a scull boat hunter will rave over, but it would not be to the liking of one shooting from a blind along the creeks or in some favorite pond. When I left home there was not a cloud in the sky; the air was crisp and clear with a white frost under foot; the breath of the northern storm king had travelled miles down the coast and had spread out like a white mantel over the peninsula and valley of Santa Clara; it was keen and cold as I climbed over the fence back of the old jail, the blue dome above me with its starry setting, was brilliant and inviting for the astronomer's telescope.

I did not see Ben that morning and would not meet him until late in the afternoon, but I knew well that he was on his way and by sun-up, if not before, I would hear the boom of his number twelve up in Smith's creek. It was, of course, problematical, just what kind of ducks we would get, because when the birds start south in tens of thousands all varieties are included in that great migratory horde, but the different species do not mix and the widgeon, teal or spoonbill will be found keeping aloof from each other as well as the other species.

With the first streaks of dawn appearing over Mount Hamilton, I was arranging my things in the little duck boat anxious for the daylight to hurry on and give me sufficient light to commence my sculling operations. As I look backward to that morning of long ago, I must confess that anxiety made me somewhat nervous as I walked along out through the marsh to where my boat was awaiting me I flushed quite a number of ducks in the small gutters and that fact alone was to me an omen of good luck and a certainty that the marshes were full of the new arrivals. While waiting for day to fully break, the widgeon could be plainly heard calling to each other down the stretches of old First slough. The tide was running out, pretty well down, with all the mud bank uncovered, just the condition of things which I most desired, for it would not be long before the tide would again be on the flood, and with the rising water there was not much danger of getting caught on a fallen mud bank and missing a chance at a good shot. Experience had taught me that sculling in the semi-daylight was not productive of good results, for two reasons. As day breaks the birds are restless, a good many of them on the move and it is not until sunrise that they begin to bank up along the slough and rest; then again a moving boat in an uncertain light often attracts their attention very easily.

So I waited patiently until the day had fully broke and glided away on the outgoing tide. Before I reached spooney point a half dozen teal jumped from the mud, but I made no attempt to shoot at them. It is a strange thing in duck hunting, that if you start the day right, that is make a good shot at first in the morning, success will crown one's efforts throughout the day, but if you make a mess or fluke out of the first shot, bad luck seems to follow in your wake. That at least had been my experiences. So on this particular morning I was desirous of making good at the first shot. There were no pump or automatic guns in those days, so if you failed with your double barrel it was an opportunity lost. Smokeless powder was not perfected and the boom of the old black powder sometimes drove the ducks a considerable distance in which case a long scull was to be made before the next shot could be obtained.

As I neared the old point I lay down carefully without making any noise and lazily drifted along as I felt sure ducks would be found in the next reach. The creek here runs straight north for about 300 yards with the bold bank on the left hand or west side. Such reaches were favorite places for the ducks to bank up and rest in the early morning sun. This morning was no exception. Down below about half the length of the stretch was a bunch of about twenty widgeon. They were strung along the edge of the water, some asleep, others swimming with heads down just in front of those on the mud. I felt instinctively that I could get that shot, so I worked slowly over the west bank and drifted along with my eyes just peeping over the wash rail to keep in touch with the flock and at the same time not get too near the bank. The sun appeared over the eastern mountains and set the bunch out in bold relief. In fact, they looked as large as mallard, but their white bald pates and breasts established their identity. A bunch of teal flanked eighty yards further on, but one flock at a time is all a scull boat hunter can attend to. Slowly drifting on the ebb tide, I was soon within range. They were all asleep with the excepton of one old drake in the water, but he might just as well have been, for by the time he became wise I was sitting up in the boat and had aim on the sleeping flock. That old drake got away but I knocked over eleven of his brothers and sisters and it is safe to assume that he was never left on guard again over the balance of that flock.

That shot did the trick, so to speak. It gave me new courage and pep and during the balance of that never to be forgotten day every move I made netted me more birds, and every flock I started after was successfully sculled. This may have been because the birds were new ones, but I still have great faith in the result of the first shot whenever I start on a day's duck hunt.

Down around the next turn where the salt works have their in-take gates now, a flock of teal and "spooneys" were banked on the right hand side and with hardly any effort they were sculled and I took a toll of two little green wings and five of the "shovelers." Over in Smith's creek I could hear Ben banging away and I knew his trip was not being made in vain.

Birds now began to appear everywhere, but the scattered ones I paid no attention to. A scull boat hunter does not want to waste time or ammunition on single birds when flocks are in the immediate vicinity. Just before reaching the point where Hen Beeger's cabin now stands I spotted a small patch of brown over under the west bank. It proved to be four "spooneys" sound asleep sitting on the mud, where they had been left by the tide. Sculling in close as I could in view of the falling tide I got within range and killed all four. Two of them, however, were cripples and I had to put on my gum boots and wade up in the mud to get them. This delay gave the birds down in Elbow a chance to quiet down and when I turned down into the creek of big mud flats, ducks were banked up everywhere.

My preferenece for sculling was always on the bold bank side unless of course, the brds were found on the mud flats, and I had of necessity to take that side. Down on the right side a small flock of teal lay fast asleep, just how many I could not tell, and across the creek directly opposite was about one hundred. The tide had now turned to come in and as I sculled along slowly, birds could be seen leading in from the bay to the big mud flats. About fifteen green wings were in the flock I was sculling and I secured eight. In fact, I sculled too close to them and had to shoot at their heads in order not to blow some nearly to pieces.

The mud flats were covered with teal and spoonbill but I swung over to the bay side where the bold bank was and drifted along slowly. Way down the stretch opposite where Nolan placed a guiding stake for the launch, "Sierra," I could see quite a bunch banked up and passing up those on the mud flats, sculled slowly along toward my quarry. They proved to be quite a bunch of teal. Scattered along the mud with a few "spooneys" to keep them company. They were sculled so easily that there was now no question about them being new birds. Eleven again, eight teal and three spoonbills lay struggling in the water when the smoke cleared away. A large number of the birds raised and flew out to the bay while some went back up First slough. In fact, the loud explosions of the black powder scattered the birds in every direction, and when I reached Bushy creek, which was usually good for a shot, not a bird was in sight. I took a look into the mouth of the fourth fence creek but there was nothing doing.

When I reached West Point creek that runs up to Billy Carnduff's I could see half a dozen large ducks drifting along n the center of the creek but could not make out what they were. Crossing over cautously I got below them and then headed up against the tide. When eighty yards way I saw they were canvassback and my heart commenced to go pit-a-pat with a touch of that nervousness so common to wild duck hunters, but I steadied myself and was soon so close to them that I had to make them jump. Three beauties answered the call, great big fellows that had probably just arrived from the north. How I did admire them as I sculled slowly along in the direction of the Bay Shore gutter. Everything was coming my way this day if it ever did.

It was now about half past ten or eleven o'clock and as I was somewhat worn out with my exertions I decided to scull out to the mouth of the Bay Shore gutter, push into the tulles, eat my lunch and then go through the gutter back to the Elbow and work toward home. Unwrapping my lunch I was about to replenish the inner man when I heard a whir of wings to the southward and glancing in that direction I saw three mallards, two drakes and a biddie, coming right to me. Reaching for my gun I picked a drake with each barrel and killed them stone dead. I'll say I was happy. Mallard and canvassback were both scarce and there I had killed five within half an hour.

My lunch was soon over and pushing the boat out and turning her around I started through the gutter with high coarse tulles on both sides. I had not gone 100 yards when upon rounding a sharp turn I came into a straight reach into which the sun was shining. As I made the turn I could see some large ducks in the center of the little creek not over 30 yards from me, and grasping my gun took quick aim and shot. One arose and I easily killed it with the second barrel. They were widgeon and I had them all five at the first shot.

For once in my life I felt satisfied Luck seemed to be my guiding star all day. It mattered not to me whether I secured another duck. In fact, my little duck boat was about loaded down. With 52 ducks, 17 of them widgeon, 18 teal, 12 spoobills, 2 mallards and 3 canvassbacks, I had good reason to be thankful.

I could hear Ben shooting as he came through the Corkscrew creek and I knew he would be at the mouth of First slough about the time that I got there, so I just loafed along finishing the balance of my lunch and met Ben about 3 o'clock. He had 43 mostly teal. Together we rowed along up First slough until we reached the place where we were to tie up and then began that last weary leg of the journey toward home. I told Ben to go on ahead as his bunch was much lighter than mine. What time I would have arrived I cannot say if Walter Welch and George Eikerenkotter had not happened along and given me a lift in their buggy.

Years have since passed but the lesson learned by that day's hunt was never forgotten and each year since I eagerly scan the newspapers to obtain the first information of the intrusion of the northern ice king into the breeding grounds of the webfoot I love so well to hunt.

San Carlos Items

Every one will regret to learn that poor health has made it necessary for L. B. Coulter to retire from the management of the C. C. Morse trial gardens here. Mr. Coulter has been engaged in this line of horticultural work for many years, devoting practically an entire life time to it, and hence it was extremely difficult for him to tear himself away form a vocation which gave him great pleasure, and in which he took such a lively interest. Before coming to California, Mr. Coulter was in the service of the D. M. Ferries' Seed Co. of Detroit, Mich., for over thirty years, from which company he resigned to accept similar work with the C. C. Morse Co. in California in 1912. He took charge of their trial gardens at Hayward, where he remained until the Hayward gardens were abandoned at the time the trial gardens were established at San Carlos in 1917. With his sister, Miss Carrie Coulter, who made her home with him, Mr. Coulter has moved to 2302 Seventeenth avenue, Oakland. W. H. Nixon, who has been with the Morse people for a good many years, and who was an assistant to Mr. Coulter at the time of his retirement, will succeed to the management of the San Carlos gardens.

Instead of selling out his fine business, which he has built up within a few months, for $10,000.00, A. J. Merta has decided to enlarge his place, and is now adding a two story annex to his building in the rear, part of which will be used as living rooms and the balance for storage purposes. The butcher would rather work than eat his meat, and he knows how to saw wood, as well as bones. His industrious use of the hammer until 10 and 11 o'clock at night gets a kick out of his neighbors who are fighting for sleep.

Joe Schneider left last Wednesday for Sacramento where he will be employed in the construction of one of the Bank of Italy's branch institutions for the balance of the year.

Miss Ella M. Urch, the popular night chief for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. at Vallejo, is here for a much needed rest and visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Urch, at the corner of Chestnut and Cherry.

W. J. Scott left last Sunday for the big pine forests in Fresno county, where he has the contract to set up and install a big electric range and other electric machines and appliances, which go to make up a well equipped kitchen with all the modern conveniences at a big lumber camp. The work is for the Sugar Pine Lumber Co.

J. M. Leach and family of San Francisco have leased and moved into the Colton home on Walnut street.

Mrs. H. P. Peterson of Piedmont was a week end visitor at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lester A. Conklin on Cypress avenue.

Mrs. W. H. Odgers and her daughter, Miss Thelma, of San Francisco were week end guests at the home of F. T. Odgers. An impromtu dance was given at the school Saturday evening in honor of the young Miss Thelma. The San Carlos orchestra supplied the music gratis.

Henry Rea is over from the Masonic home at Decoto for a month's visit at the home of his step son, T. D. Ruggles, the San Carlos plumber.

R. O. Cook, auditor for the California Packing Company, with headquarters at Walnut creek, came over to spend Sunday with his family.

The News Leader of San Mateo suggesting Alfred Smith, governor-elect of New York, as a presidential possibility, reminds us that we have often remarked, that it was unfortunate that we never had a Smith, Brown or Jones for president of these United States, when we have so many of them. Hence, should any one bearing either of these conspicious names, ever run for president, they should expect that all of the Smiths, Browns and Jones would vote for them, in sympathy, if for no other reason.

Partridge, deceased, will, on or after the 27th day of November, A. D. 1922, offer for sale and sell at private sale, as a whole or in subdivisions, as said Executrix shall judge most beneficial to the estate of said deceased, to the highest and best bidder or bidders for cash in lawful money of the United States, and subject to confirmation by said Superior Court, all of the right, title, interest and estate of said F. L. Partridge, also known as Ferdinand L. Partridge, owned or had acquired during his lifetime and all of the right, title, interest and estate that the estate of said deceased has by operation of law or otherwise acquired other than or in addition to that of said deceased at the time of his death, of, in or to all of the following described real and personal property, situated in the County of San Mateo, State of California, to wit:

Real Property: Lot No. 52 as shown upon that certain map entitled "The Charles Weeks Poultry Colony, Fourth Addition to Runnymede, San Mateo County, California," filed in the office of the County Recorder of San Mateo County, February 13, 1920.

Personal Property: 12 shares of O'Connor Tract Cooperative Water Company, Certificate No. 26, appurtenant to said real property.

MANNER, TERMS, AND CONDITION OF SALE

Bids or offers will be received for said real property as a whole or for any subdivision thereof, each bid or offer therefor to particularly describe the subdivision or portion bid for; bids and offers may be made at any time after the first publication of this notice and before the making of the sale; all bids and offers must be in writing, and may be delivered to the Executrix or left for her at the law offices of Egerton D. Lakin, Esq., First National Bank Bldg., Palo Alto, California, or may be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the State of California, in and for the County of Santa Clara, at San Jose, California. The right is reserved to reject the whole or any part of any bid and to accept it as to any part or subdivision bid for. Sales will be made for cash in lawful money of the United States, ten per cent (10 per cent) of the amount of any bid to be paid to the Executrix on notice of acceptance of bid, and the balance of the said sum to be paid to her upon the confirmation of sale by said superior court, and delivery or tender of deed; the instrument of purchase to be at the expense of the purchaser.

Dated the 6th day of November, 1922.

ESTABLISHED IN 1853

Cleaning Without Odor by the F. Thomas Process

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded by our customers.

With the "F. Thomas Process" we not only remove every particle of dust but we return your garments without that usual disagreeable smell of gasoline. Every drop of gasoline we use in cleaning is redistilled and very highly refined.

Raw gasoline—the kind that you buy for your automobile—is full of heavy oils and unfit for cleaning fabrics. It is little better than ordinary distillate and leaves a sickening "gasoline" smell in your clothes.

Our equipment to redistill and purify our cleaning fluids alone represents a bigger investment than many cleaners have in their entire plant. That is why our work has no odor.

MENLO PARK NEWS

Mrs. Karl Rosenfield entertained several frends at the "Peony Gardens" on Santa Cruz avenue last Tuesday. Delicious refreshments were served, including three mammoth strawberry short cakes, made from the famous berries grown in their garden. Among the guests present were the Mesdames Crickson, C. W. Palmer, A. Anderson, H. Lewis, J. O. Whiting, C. J. Williams, W. A. Doyle, F. Bracesco, Geo. Loone and Frank Derry.

Mrs. Harry Dalton returned from Portland, Oregon, this week after a visit of two weeks with relatives. She was accompanied home by her mother.

J. H. Sullivan has purchased three acres of land adjoining the estate of Robert Moore on Valparaiso avenue. Mr. Sullivan may erect a dwelling on the property.

Boyd Braden left for the east yesterday on a business trip and will return to Menlo Park during the holidays. Mr. Braden will stop off at St. Louis and Chicago on his way to New York. He is the proprietor of the local studio that manufactures films for the government.

Senator Shortridge departed for Washington on the 8 o'clock train from here Tuesday night. He stopped off at Los Angeles for a short time and from there went direct to the capital to be present at the special session of Congress that convenes on Monday next. The senator has much work mapped out and hopes to accomplish a great deal for the state during the session.

Mr. Kurtz, proprietor of the Menlo Pharmacy, has leased Canary cottage across the street to which place he will move the drug store. The vacant quarters are to be occupied by Fred Nessler who will tare down the partition between his store and make one large business place. In the new quarters will be displayed his large assortment of Christmas goods which are now arriving from the east. Mr. Kutzr is disposing of his large stock at reduced rates. He will represent the Owl Drug Co. here and will stock the new store with a full line of drugs.

Geo. E. Russell was injured in an auto accident in Santa Cruz last Friday. His shoulder was broken and he is now in the O'Conner sanitarium in San Jose. Latest reports are that he is on the road to recovery.

The Pope Estate Company and the Talbot Investment Company through Baldwin and Howell, have sold thirty acres of land at Atherton to Cailleau and Bacciocco, capitalists of San Francisco. The property is to be subdivided at once into small tracts. A town known as Atherton is to be established on the tract. It is to be strictly up to date, with wide streets, a lighting system, a modern community center, club houses, and all modern conveniences. The tract is dotted with oaks, nicely located in the midst of large estates, and is without doubt the choicest building site on the ueninsula. An attractive price was paid for the property. The purchasers also own twenty-five acres in the Selby tract. For forty-five years the Popes and Talbots have owned the thirty acres. Some years ago Mayor James Rolph of San Francisco had an option on the property intending to establish a palatial home there, but some dispute arose with the owners, and Mr. Rolph failed to exercise the option.

Frank Wilson passed away at Palo Alto Saturday last after an illness of a week. Before going to Palo Alto two months ago Mr. Wilson resided in Menlo Park for several years. He was a well known San Francisco insurance man, highly respected by all who knew him. He was a native of Indiana, aged 59 years. The funeral, on Tuesday, from Trinity Episcopal church here, was largely attended by sorrowing friends and relatives. The boy scouts acted as a guard of honor at the church. Mr. Wilson was the local scout master and was interested in the boys, often taking them on long hikes to the mountains. Two years ago he accompanied a large number of the boy scouts to the Yosemite Valley. Rev. Hugh Montgomery, a former rector of [illegible] church, came down from Stockton to officiate at the funeral servces. Mr. Wilson is survived by a wife and a young son. The remains were cremated at Mount Olivet cemetery.

California Gas Appliance Week—

November 13 to 18

THROUGHOUT CALIFORNIA from November 13 to 18, Gas Appliance Week is to be conducted for the purpose of better educating the housewife in the efficient use of gas and gas equipment. The combined efforts of gas companies, gas appliance manufacturers and dealers, plumbers, hardware dealers, furniture dealers, and newspapers are behind this movement to make it one of real value to every user of gas-burning appliances.

Ask about the use of gas and gas appliances

WATCH your local newspapers for announcements of special displays and demonstrations. They will be for your benefit, and worth while information will be given. Ask your dealer in gas appliances or at the local P G and E office for information on any point you may not understand.

Take advantage of all that Gas Appliance Week offers.

-distinct advantages of a statewide banking connection

The third of a series of five advertisements

-to wholesalers and jobbers..

Wholesalers and jobbers in northern, central and southern California have repeatedly acknowledged that their business operations which extend over a large portion of the state have been greatly facilitated and "speeded up" through the statewide service of the Bank of Italy.

In matters of credit information, obtaining reliable data on agricultural and business conditions, collections, establishing branch houses or selling agencies—the services of a financial institution with 60 banking offices in 42 California cities can readily be appreciated.
